

Dragon Kidnaped

CHAPTER 1

NEW IN TOWN

Once upon a time,
In the small village of Crowington, there
Was a loud thud of footprints that could be heard from miles around? A large, red creature glared nosily around his new home. The creature was welcomed by angry stares from the people who lived there, because it Wasn't every day they would see a dragon. The dragon was big with large claws and a spiky tail. Red and yellow spikes on its tail made the dragon look very scary. The teeth of the dragon were long and sharp.

The princess heard the news about the dragon in the village. Her family warned her to stay away from him but she wasn't that concerned about it.

She thought nothing could happen to her so she

Meanwhile, the dragon was wondering around the village
Looking very suspicious.

Chapter Two

Kidnapped

It was Bedelia's turn to go to the supermarket. She was wondering around the isles of the store, when surprisingly she was put into a big black sack and hairy claws were touching her. The next thing she knew she was riding in a carriage and presumed on her way to the docks as she could faintly smell the sea. When she opened her eyes she was tied to a chair with a big bright light shining at her. Then she saw the dragon... it was the same one who had recently moved into the Crowingtown neighbourhood. She said to him, "Was it you that kidnapped me?"

"Yes," replied the dragon. "But why?" cried Bedelia, "Because I felt like it!" screamed the dragon...

Bedelia said no more because a big hairy fist just knocked her out.

1. Chapter 3

Drunk Dragon

Bedelia woke up on the bottom of a ship. The dragon was looking for food down below. The dragon was looking for food down below. He was rummaging through the nets and barrels. But all he found was the ships life supply of drink and if you think a human finding wine is bad you've got another thing coming because when a dragon goes on the wine it isn't good. After about 5 minutes of the wine the dragon was as drunk as anything. He was waddling he was bouncing; he was saying strange things to Bedelia. After about an hour the dragon had Bedelia tricked into taking a glass of wine. Although Bedelia used her common sense (she did not respect this gift as a child. Luckily the wise old fairy gave her common sense or she wouldn't be good in life crises like the one she was in now.) When all the drink was gone the dragon in an instance was surprisingly sober again; this was a brilliant change of events because if he didn't calm down soon god knows what Bedelia would have had to do to him (throw him over board possibly!)

CHAPTER 4: DRAGONS BREAKFAST

The dragon found himself in the kitchen with Bedeila and the cook.

The cook was scared stiff. The dragon kept asking her to, well... cook him some breakfast, but the cook was frozen so the Dragon ate her instead.

The dragon was still hungry so he went around the still hungry so he went around the ship eating everyone he found.

Eventually there was no-one left on the ship but the Dragon and Bedeila.

At this point Bedeila was starving, but as she was practical, she knew how to cope. It was quite lonely for Bedeila only having a drunken Dragon to talk to but what can you do?

Infact Bedeila was coping better that the average human, very calm, very, very calm... Too calm!!

CHAPTER 5: LOVE ATLAST

Suddenly, the wind got faster, the waves got bigger and Well that's all that happened, but it was still worrying. The Dragon began to panic but Bedeila remained calm as she was so practical. The Dragon was funning around hysterically when the mast of the ship broke in half. [Probably because of the Dragons weight. {4 stone}] Bedeila was smart so she knew how to work this to her advantage.

“Dragon”, Bedeila shouted over the wind.

“I have a way to save the ship”.

“How?” demanded the Dragon.

First start jumping up and down as hard as you can”.

“How will that help?” The Dragon asked.

“You'll see” Bedeila said slyly.

When the Dragon jumped up once or twice the old ship broke in half, the Dragon on the other.

When the ship broke, the Dragon plummeted to the depths of the ocean never to be seen again. Bedeila swam back to shore and was met by a handsome prince. He had heard about the princess and came ASAP. He brought Bedeila back to his castle where they got married. Bedila's mother and father were overjoyed to see her again and happiness was restored to the kingdom of Crownington. There were celebrations for weeks and Bedeila got to rule a kingdom of her own.

THE END

PS. If you were wondering how the prince found Bedeila, Bedeila stole one of the Dragon's empty beer bottles and put a note in it.

The note said:

To who ever finds this note. I am Princess Bedeila and I am being held captive on an old ship by a BIG, red Dragon. I'm going to trick the Dragon somehow and you must wait for me at the shore. Whoever finds me I will marry (if you're a man, that is. If you're a lady you will be richly rewarded.) That's how the prince found Bedeila and why they got married.

The Proper End

Just a normal day (except the fact that a 4 tonne dragon moved into the kingdom!) out at the super market, when Kidnapped!!!! (By a dragon to be precise.) And on the way to Crowington docks in a stolen carriage. Could things get any worse? Throw a drunken dragon into it and it's a recipe for disaster for princess Bedeila. Good thing she's practical. What will happen next?
